What is Bridge2Aid all about?

B2A is committed to preventing the tragedies that occur where there is no access to even basic dental treatment:

Petro is 12 and has been in pain for several months. His parents were so desperate to help they took him to a Witch Doctor who stabbed his face repeatedly with a razor blade and rubbed black powder into the wounds. His problem is a dental abscess, which can be simply treated with antibiotics and an extraction by a Health Worker with our training. Without treatment our clinicians concluded he would have died.

Magalita is 78 and has been in pain for 11 years. Such was the level of her desperation to escape the pain after 9 years that she consented to her son removing the offending tooth with a knife. As well as being a hideous experience, with no anaesthetic, the procedure caused a deep infection and caused the formation of a benign tumour, which B2A have arranged and funded surgery to remove. She can now eat normally. This could have been prevented by access to someone with basic dental skills.

B2A trains the local health worker who already lives and works in the villages where people like Petro and Magalita live to recognise dental problems, extract teeth, refer the complex cases, and give oral health education.

This means they can stop these tragedies from occurring.

The training is carried out by teams of volunteer dentists, nurses, therapists and hygienists who cover their own costs of travel to Tanzania. B2A organises everything for the 2 week visit.

We've trained more than 350 health workers in Tanzania and Rwanda. The trainees are able to safely deal with over 95% of the dental problems they are faced with.
